

A bigger plane for the IPSA Congress

Soon, Poznań will host the 24th IPSA World Congress of Political Science. Between July 23rd and 27th, over 3000 delegates from all over the world will arrive in the city - this means an increased demand for air and rail transport.

Poznań Convention Bureau is all the more happy to be cooperating with Poznań Ławica Airport in supporting the congress organisers. It was possible to implement additional connections by SAS between Copenhagen and Poznań, and just recently, the availability of a larger plane was negotiated with PLL LOT on the Warsaw-Poznań route on July 23rd, and thus more seats for the flight to Poznań have become available.

This is a great example of how Poznań is capable to smoothly handle accessibility by air when organising larger scale events.
